There will be a box supper given at Herring's School House, Friday night, Nov. 6. Everybody cordially invited to come and bring a box.

The following ones are numbered with the sick—Madame Rebecca West, Emma Kauffman, Matte P. Frisbie and Dr. J. H. Klimard.

Mrs. E. D. Potts has recently issued "Idle Hour Stories" and "Stories for Children" two volumes prettily bound in green and red covers suitable for Christmas presents. Price of each post-paid $1.10. Address the author at Lexington, Ky.

An expert accountant for the American Hemp Company examined the books of R. M. West & Co., which were kept by F. H. Marksbury, and found them in perfect condition. This reflects great credit on the members of the home firm, as they did a large volume of business with the first named firm.

Ed C. Gaines is offering good money for the best samples of corn and tobacco that is brought to his office on or before county court day of this month. His show last year attracted much attention and it bids fair this year to have more contestants. Pick your corn and tobacco and go after his money.

Everybody should attend the entertainment at the Court House next Monday night. Half the proceeds will be given to the school library.

The entertainment is well worth the price of admission, and every one who attends will have an enjoyable evening and the satisfaction of having helped in a worthy cause.

Good For Richmond.

The Madison grand jury reported as follows: "The grand jury has leave to make the following report: After a thorough investigation of the different violations of the law, we find that crime of every nature is on the decrease. It is true that our county had this year several homicides, but, notwithstanding that, we are compelled to believe that public morals have materially improved. We also find from a statement made by our mayor, C. E. Woods, taken from the records of the different courts, that the cost of keeping state, county and city prisoners has decreased one-half, as compared with 1906, when saloons were in force in our city, and arrests for drunkenness are about one-tenth now what they were in 1906, all of which we attribute to the abolishment of saloons and the general crusade against drunkenness and intoxicating liquors.—Lexington Herald.

Joe Robinson still pleading for the Commonwealth, "Keg" Mason keeper of the circuit court records, Ballard and Robinson collecting tax, Jack Adams in jail, Miss Higgins looking after schools, Thainley surveying, Stinson inspecting the dead, Bourne building new pikes to help Lancaster and Garrard county's Development Association.

Farmer's Institute.
As announced in the RECORD last week, the Farmers' Institute convened at Paint Lick Monday morning, with a large crowd present.

Mr. Blandford, who was sent by Commissioner Rankin to conduct the Institute was on hand and called the house to order. After some remarks, in which he said that from the looks of the crowd the men present did not come in the interest of the Institute but for another purpose, the meeting proceeded.

Hon. R. H. Tomlinson and Senator George Farris made a motion that the election of officers would be the first thing, which was seconded and carried. The following nominations were made and seconded, and the nominees were elected without having opposition, all of whom were democrats, the republicans seeing that they could not elect a man in such a throng of democrats: President, J. Wade Walker; Vice Presidents, S. D. Cochran and G. B. Swinbroad; Secretary, R. L. Elkin; Delegate, E. L. Woods; Alternates, J. M. Farra and G. B. Swinbroad; Treasurer, W. G. Kemper.

After election of officers the Institute proceeded to Institute work, but Tuesday being election day, we were unable to get a report of same.

Mr. Everett Farra, candidate for member of the State Board of Agriculture, and Senator Newman, Secretary of State Fair were present.

LETTERS OF ENCOURAGEMENT.

Since the organization of the Lancaster and Garrard County Development Association many encouraging letters have been received, among which is one from Mr. Fred Levy, of Louisville, in which he says: "Needless to say, I think this a fine thing for the welfare of the towns interest and of course it will meet with stupendous success in the hands of such energetic and progressive citizens. If non-resident membership is eligible, I would like for you to propose my name for membership, and if elected notify me and I will settle. We appreciate this from such an excellent gentleman as Mr. Levy and only regret that we can not admit non-residents as members."

Another letter from Mr. John B. McFarrin, of Louisville, to Hon. S. D. Cochran, in which he writes encouragingly of the move and congratulates the people of Garrard county through him, on their determination to "wake up and improve things". His letter is a most excellent one, bids Mr. Cochran God speed in his work as chairman of the Educational Committee.

He says that while we have splendid crops of agricultural products, the crop of children is more important than all others and their culture should receive special attention.

FIVE DOLLARS IN GOLD.

The Lancaster and Garrard County Development Association, which was formed here this week, wants a slogan or battle cry which will help it win contests in the great commercial war now in progress between different communities for supremacy and will give Five Dollars in Gold for the best suggestion sent to the President of the Association, John M. Farra, Lancaster on or before November 16th.

The slogan should not be more than eight or ten words and should be especially expressive of Lancaster and Garrard County's interest or what both must stand for. This slogan is to be used in red ink on every piece of literature issued by the association and it is hoped that all merchants, bankers, professional men and citizens generally who have printed stationery will use the slogan on all of their envelopes and letter heads. The association has appointed R. E. Hughes, President Kentucky Electric Co., Louisville; Brinton B. Davis, President Commercial Club, Louisville; and A. B. Lipscomb, Secretary Commercial Club, Louisville as a committee to award the Five Dollars for the above named prize.

For convenience, the following blank may be used. Fill it out and mail it to John M. Farra, Lancaster.

I respectfully suggest the following as an appropriate slogan for the Lancaster and Garrard County Development Association:

OUR TIME TO CROW.

Paint Lick Democratic Monday.

The holding of the Farmer's Institute, for Garrard County, at Paint Lick, a Republican precinct, in the extreme Eastern part of the county, on last Monday and Tuesday, seems to verify the assertion so frequently made by the press of the State, that the office of Commissioner of Agriculture is being operated to further the interests of the republican party, by electing delegates to the State Institute, and there electing a Republican as a member of the Board of Agriculture, thereby giving that party control of the State Fair and everything connected with the Bureau of Agriculture. That office has been productive of much good to the farmer, but, as it is degenerating into politics, we fear that its usefulness will be no more.

Different meetings of that kind place the blame at the door of the republican party, and who can blame the democrats for taking a hand. They went to Paint Lick, on Monday, from Lancaster and other points, on the railroad, in automobiles, buggies, wagons, and horse back, about 300 strong. When the election of officers was in order the republicans, seeing that they were snowed under, made no nominations, and the Democrats elected a delegate and all the officers for the county.

We quote from The Kentucky State Journal, the following:

"It is to be regretted that a work so well begun and fraught with such possibility for good should have gathered about it, within less than two short years such a decided odor of partisan politics. The reading public recalls the State Institute at Elizabethtown last winter, and how the real purposes of the meeting were practically lost sight of in the political scrap into which it degenerated. The manner in which the County Institutes are being conducted this year is becoming well known over the State. Holding meetings in Democratic counties at out-of-the-way places, and at inconvenient times, made it easy to win the political trek in view, the election of a Republican delegate, till the scheme was exposed. And the interests of the farmers have fare no better—perhaps in such meetings as have been held since the exposure was made, as the Democrats, resenting the intrusion of politics into the meetings, have been just as partisan in their attempt to elect Democratic delegates. No one could expect the Democrats, under the circumstances to take any other course. As a result the usurping interest at the meetings has been the election of a delegate; this over, but little interest has been shown in the real business of the meeting."

The organization of The Lancaster and Garrard County Development Association heralds a new era in agricultural, commercial, educational and all business relations. The means and resources are abundant having been given to us from the bountiful hand of Jehovah. Our people are cultured and intelligent. The want of public spirit and enterprise has, to some extent, retarded our advancement. Individual effort cannot accomplish what united and combined effort will insure. A realization of this fact is the basis for the formation of all Development Associations. In unity there is strength.

It now behoves us to buy our goods at home and thus enable our merchants to carry anything that we might need. Every dollar spent from home diminishes our resources. Factories will now be built to manufacture our many luxuriant farm products, and the interest of one will be the interest of all. Let us make a long hard pull, altogether for the development of our rich resources.

Since the election is over the country

try will have time to rest awhile from the busy hum and bustle in reference to the prospects of different candidates and how men would vote. We have no harsh words or personal thrusts for any one, and we only exercised our right in favoring the election of the Democratic ticket. The result will not change our form of government. The plowmen will roll their ample rounds, the stars will still twinkle, the sun will shed its glorious light, the showers will continue to renew vegetation, and fertile soil will yet yield abundant harvests notwithstanding the result; and the same would have been true if the result had been different. So the nation yet lives and God rules the universe.

We, the sovereign people, have selected Democratic servants for another four years, who will look after the interests of all the people, as they have been weighed in the scales and not found wanting. Although the official vote cannot be given until next issue, it is a source of unbounded satisfaction to know that we won all along the line. Conditions varied the majority, but the candidates put up a brave fight and they richly deserve the signal victory which they have won.

On the first day of this month the fees for registering a letter was raised from eight to ten cents. The Department alleges that the increase is necessary to make up a big deficit in the registry department.

What deficit is it that makes Uncle Sam compete with poor printers of envelopes? Could he not do without this little sum and let others live?

Charley Hardin and J. E. Robinson will be yoked together again to represent the Commonwealth and an able team cannot be found in the State. Their official career is a guarantee that they will guard the interests of the people, and that they will do their duty in any office.

Judge Sautley carried every county in the District and his majority will be about 1,500. We are glad that he will again grace the judicial throne, and everybody knows how well he will discharge his duties.

As we predicted, Kentucky has taken her stand again in the Democratic ranks, and will not be lead astray again, by false assertions and mouse traps.

The next legislature will be overwhelmingly Democratic in both houses. The senate will be 26 to 12 and the house 76 to 24.

Having captured the log cabin, we may clean it out, paper and paint it, and winter our game chickens in it.

And there still stands Garrard, in the Democratic column.

Londyville has a Head that will direct her properly.

Kills Her Foe Of 20 Years
"The most merciless enemy I had for 20 years," declares Mrs. James Duncan, of Haynesville, Me., "was Dyspepsia. I suffered intensely after eating or drinking and could scarcely sleep. After many remedies had failed and several doctor gave me up, I tried Electric Bitters, which cured me completely. Now I can eat anything. I am 70 years old and am overjoyed to get my health and strength back again." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Kidney Trouble, Lame Back, Female Complaints, it is unequalled. Only 5¢ at R. E. McRoberts, Inc.

To The Public In General
Come now let us reason together. Be considerate and charitable to your Flour Mills. Did you know if the mills had not bought your wheat this year and you had had your wheat shipped to any market outside of your state in Kentucky three fourths of it would have been rejected. We have bought largely the majority of our wheat and by considerable expense by adding extra cleaners and lot to hard work by handling and re-handling, cleaning and re-cleaning, we get the wheat in pretty good shape at a loss of one-fifth of the wheat. All the impurities are taken out of the wheat and the thiner the grain the better the mill is as possible to make it. But remember the wheat is still not as good as we generally have in our great old State of Kentucky. Then member the Government made us stop blending flour, you will still get good pure flour but not so white, and owing to the continued dampness will not be quite so lively. Any good standard mill can make just as good flour as the other mill, so stick to your home mill and you will make no mistake.

Forward into Exile
Wm. Upchurch of Glen Oak, Okla., was an exile from home. Mountain air, he thought, would cure a frightening lung-creaking cough that had defied all remedies for two years. After six months he returned, deaf, dogging his steps. "Then I began to use Dr. Discovery," he writes, "and after taking six bottles I am as well as ever." It saves thousands yearly from desperate lung diseases. Infallible for Coughs and Colds, it dispels Hoarseness and Sore Throat, Cures Grippe, Hernorrhoids, Hemorrhages, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough. 50¢ and $1.00, trial bottle free, guaranteed by R. E. McRoberts.

It now behoves us to buy our goods at home and thus enable our merchants to carry anything that we might need. Every dollar spent from home diminishes our resources. Factories will now be built to manufacture our many luxuriant farm products, and the interest of one will be the interest of all. Let us make a long hard pull, altogether for the development of our rich resources.

Since the election is over the country

Commissioner Renkin's Denial.
The Lexington Herald, of November 1st contains the following denial of Commissioner Rankin, that the republicans have injected politics into Farmers' Institutes:

To the Citizens of Kentucky:—Upon reading an article in the Louisville Evening Post of October 27th concerning the Farmers' Institute at Flemingsburg, Shelby County, in which the question was asked "why was the Institute placed at Flemingsburg instead of at the county seat," and the correspondent writing the article claimed that the question had been unanswered. Always I have disliked to engage in a newspaper controversy but I feel that it is due the people to know the affairs of this office as I am their servant, and it has been, and will continue to be, the policy of the Agricultural Department to keep "open books" for the benefit of the farmers and citizens of this Commonwealth. The reason for holding the County Farmers' Institute of Shelby County at Flemingsburg was that we had inaugurated a boys and girls growing contest last spring, and it was placed at Flemingsburg at the suggestion of County Superintendent of Schools, G. M. Money, who is a Democrat, because he thought it to be one of the best farming communities in the county, and if he made a mistake certainly I should not be blamed for it and I feel that the article in the Louisville Evening Post is a reflection upon the people of that community. I am in receipt of a letter from Mr. E. C. Vaughn of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, Kentucky, who was Judge of the corn, and he states that there were twelve entries and that it was a very successful contest.

Now it seems that some few narrow-minded Democratic politicians, who are candidates or prospective candidates for office have seen fit to use the columns of the Democratic press to criticize this office for locating the County Farmers' Institutes in so called out-of-the-way places and charge that it was done for political reasons. I desire to deny this in toto, and further state that I do not propose to use or be used by any politicians or be controlled by a machine of either party or take part in the maintenance of a machine prepared by someone for his own personal gain, but instead intend to be Commissioner of Agriculture and hold these Institutes for the benefit of the whole people regardless of machine politics.

It has been the custom in the past for a few of the court house politicians in any county, be it Democratic or Republican, to control or attempt to control all meetings whenever held at the county seats whether it be a farmers or political meeting. I find that in nearly every case some politicians desirous of furthering their own interests through the channels of these meetings, hence I desire to hold these meetings in places other than county seats to avoid any injection of politics in this great and progressive work. But what do I find? In many instances where the institutes are being held for the benefit of the farmers in farming districts, gangs of politicians and thugs from the county seats are brought to the institutes for the sole purpose of electing a Democratic delegate to the State Institute and not to derive any benefit from these meetings but to control them in a political way, and thwart the will of the farmer. Still the howl goes up that they are not injecting any politics in the institute work.

I believe that in ten years time if the institutes are held in rural districts that enough farmers would be so aroused and enthused that the institutes, when held in county seats, would cease to be dominated by politicians and professional men and become a farmers' meeting in its real and true sense. Many farmers live ten, twelve and fifteen miles from the county seats and cannot and will not always go there, and I believe in personal work and direct contact with the people, and therefore, the institutes having been at the county seats in the past until last year did they that should be carried to the people who desire and need the instructions and will take advantage of the same when presented to them. I believe that if I can arouse and help a number of men in different parts of each county that I will have done a great work and will have benefited the people that I am most interested in.

I believe that those men and women who live in rural districts and sparse are as much entitled and should share equally as well as those who live in the most accessible points for they pay their taxes as readily as the man who lives in town. Certainly it would be unfair to them should I harken to purely selfish motives of some people and continue to hold these meetings at one point, depriving the masses who toil from sun to sun, producing the food products and raw materials to feed and clothe the people of the towns and cities of the benefits to be derived from these meetings. I appeal to the reason of the fair minded citizens of this State if I have not set forth just and logical reasons for my actions in this matter, and that are free from any political assemblage.

To illustrate the above reasons I call to mind a few of the successes and failures in the institute work of the past two years. Last year learning that all institutes held in Flemingsburg, the county seat of Fleming county, had been almost a failure in every case, I placed the institute at

Ewing where an attendance of 600 was present on the second day, although a steady down pour of rain continued throughout the day. These same people were so enthusiastic that they asked for the institute again this year but having a corn growing contest in that county at Hillsboro, and following my idea to alternate the institute between the different points in the county I held it at Hillsboro. Last year successful institutes were held at Pleasureville, Henry County; Crowsville, Shelby County; Flemingsburg, Madison County; and Walton, Boone County, all being away from county seats and in almost every case when they were held away from county seats large and enthusiastic and profitable meetings were held, while those held in the county seats, with but few exceptions, were almost a total failure, as the records in this office will show.

When results are being obtained in proportion to the money expended I feel that the broad-minded and progressive people will say "Weighed in the balance and found not wanting." Now if there is a pebble in this work by whom was it injected? Surely not from this department. Our books are open. My actions are subject to criticism and I extend to each and every citizen a cordial invitation to visit the Agricultural Department and see for himself the work we are doing. Respectfully submitted,

M. C. RANKIN,
Com'r of Agriculture.

School No. 8.
An entertainment for the benefit of the school will be given at the Court House Monday night, November 8th.

The proceeds will be used for purchasing books for the grade libraries. A large number of the pupils are selling tickets this week. Mrs. Burnside's music class will give a program in the chapel last Friday afternoon. On the last Friday of each month at 3:00 o'clock Mrs. Burnside will be glad for those who are interested to be present to hear the Music class program.

On Monday morning special exercises were given by the little people of the second grade. They presented a little play entitled, "Why the Evergreens Keep their Leaves" Charlie E'more and Woodruff Williams sang, "You Can't Pick Plums from My Plum Tree."

Several of our former pupils were with us on Monday, among them Lige Ford, now a student in State College. Three new pupils, Jennie and Kite Terrell and James Ross, all of Mims were enrolled Monday.

The pupils of Miss Anderson's room enjoyed a Halloween Feast on Friday afternoon; nuts fruits and cakes to abundance had been provided by the little people.

Programs will be arranged for each room for Thanksgiving exercises. We hope that another year may find our surroundings so changed that all the school may participate in a general Thanksgiving program.

What would you be willing to give, man or woman, if you know how to change your gray hair to the color of youth, and, if you are a woman, to increase the length and vigor and glossiness of your hair to an extent, when you are little, crave, but have hitherto as your wild dreams never thought attainable.

John Hirkholz, Omaha City, says: "I used Q-Han Hair Restorer two weeks, the gray hair I had have assumed their natural color."

Lucela Mason, this city, says: "Two applications of Q-Han Hair Restorer took my hair coming out, and cured completely an infection of the scalp, and removed all dandruff from which I have suffered for years."

We have these testimonials on file in our office signed as above. Q-Han Hair Restorer and Q-Bar Hair Tonic are not idle dream, they do the work. If six bottles of Q-Han Hair Restorer (and it only requires six bottles for the most obtrusive case that has ever been treated) fail to bring back your gray hair to the natural color of youth, your money will be refunded by the druggist of whom you buy the preparation. You know your druggist—ask him. Every gentleman, every well bred and well-groomed man should use the Q-Han Hair Tonic; it will save what you have; will keep the scalp to healthy condition and will increase the vigor, length and glossiness of the hair. To the needy it is a necessity, to the gentlewoman or gentleman a dainty, ask your druggist.

R. E. McRoberts recommends and sells these preparations.

If you are gray haired or your hair is commencing to fade you can have the first full size 5¢ bottle by sending 12¢ in postage to the Hessig-Elis Drug Co., Memphis, Tenn.

HIGH ROYAL TITLES

LITTLE MODESTY SHOWN BY OCUPERS OF THRONES.

One Sovereign of Insignificant Empire Rejoiced in the Appellation "Great Thief"—Many Others Equally Ludicrous.

It is reported, the czar of Russia intends to abandon his title, "autocrat of all the Russian," he will sacrifice the most exalted of his many dignities, a mere rectal of which would fill half a column and which are certainly numerous enough to equip a series of reasonable potentates.

But even the czar's proud array of titles cuts a poor figure beside that of the sultan of Turkey, who in a Turkish newspaper was described not long ago as "the greatest pearl of the age and the esteemed center of the universe, at whose portals stand the canals of justice and mercy, and to whom the eyes of the kings and people in the west have been drawn, the rulers there finding an example of political prowess and the classes a model of mercy and kindness; our lord and master the sultan of two shores and the high king of the two seas, the crown of ages and the pride of all countries, the greatest of all khaliffs, the shadow of God on earth, the successor of the apostle of the lord of the universe, the victorious conqueror (Al-Ghaz) Sultan Abdul-Hamid Khan."

There have been several sovereigns who have actually claimed to be divines; among them the kings of Ava and of Ceylon, each of whom was called "God."

His majesty of Ava in his letters to his fellow sovereigns spoke of himself as "King of kings, whom all others must obey, as he is the cause of preservation of all the animals, the regulator of the seasons, the absolute master of the ebb and flow of the sea, brother to the sun and king of the four-and-twenty umbrellas."

The Kandyan monarch, equally lacking in humility, described himself as "the protector of religion, whose fame is infinite and of surpassing excellence, exceeding the moon, the unexpanded Jasminine buds, and the stars, whose feet are as fragrant to the noses of other kings as flowers to the bosom of most noble patron and God by custom," etc.

The Shah of Persia has an amazing array of titles, ranging from shahinshah (king of kings) to such poetical attributes as "the rose of light," "the branch of honor" and "the mirror of virtue," while his majesty of Arracan, possessor of the white elephant and the two earrings, and in virtue of this possession legitimate heir of Pegu and Brama; lord of the 12 provinces of Bengal and of the 12 kings who place their heads under his feet."

The King of Achem boasted almost as many high dignities as there are days in a year; among them "the sovereign of the universe, whose body is luminous as the sun; whose God created to be an accomplished as the moon at her plenitude; whose eye glitters like the sun's northern star; a king as spiritual as a ball is round, who, when he rises, shades all his people, and from under whose feet a sweet odor is wafted."

But perhaps the most remarkable title any monarch ever proud to own was one borne by the king of Monomotapa, whose praises were sung by his court poets and musicians as "lord of the sun and moon, great magician and great thief."

Dr. H. D. Rodman's last importation of Jersey cattle from the Isle of Jersey has reached his farm near Shively, Ky. This importation consists of 85 head of the best island type of Jersey, which money could buy. This importation added to the 80 head already at his farm gives Dr. Rodman a herd of 165 head of imported Jerseys. It will be remembered that Dr. Rodman recently sold at public auction every Jersey on his place that had an American cross, reserving only the imported animals. His herd is headed by the great bull I Stockwell, which sold two years ago for $11,500.

Three hundred and fifty bushels of merchantable potatoes from one acre of ground is the record obtained by James Peffer a market gardener, of near Paris, Ky. The ground was virgin soil and was plowed deeply in March. Freezing weather followed pulverizing the soil which by seed time was in excellent condition to receive the tubers. Mr. Peffer says the culture of the potato is not understood in Kentucky, the grower invariably failing to plant a sufficient quantity of seed. Mr. Peffer in telling of his phenomenal success says that he never plants less than 15 bushels of potatoes to the acre with the usual amount is never over 8 bushels.

To obtain the best results Mr. Peffer says a loose mellow soil should be used, deeply plowed and thoroughly harrowed and leveled. Draw the furrows three feet apart, plant the tubers six inches apart in the furrow and if planted early in March, cover lightly and if planted toward April 1 cover deeply and always with a hoe.

Mr. Peffer says that the selection of the seed tubers should be made with great care, and that as near as possible they should be of uniform size throughout, each tuber being split with a knife both ways making four large pieces. The secret of this success is Mr. Peffer is that each tuber so planted will furnish nutriment to the young plant, and nourish it till it is ready to draw its strength from the soil, resulting always in the young plant being vigorous and thrifty, insuring rapid growth and early maturing of the crop. Mr. Peffer planted this year the Early Rose variety using the imported seed and by digging and marketing the crop early realized an average price of eighty cents per bushel.—Lexington Herald.

TWO SETS OF LAWS

ROOSEVELT IDEA OF "RUDE AND PRIMITIVE JUSTICE."

Immunity for the Sugar Trust with its Millions—Unlawful Imprisonment for Small Malefactors Proounced Innocent.

"No criminal, high or low, whom we can reach, will receive immunity," shrieked Mr. Roosevelt in his Memorial day speech at Indianapolis in 1907.

"As a matter of course we shall punish any criminal whom we can convict under the law."

"Wherever evildoers can be, they will be brought to justice."

"The power of the nation must be exerted to stop crimes of cunning no less than crimes of violence."

At the time Mr. Roosevelt uttered these inspiring sentiments the sugar trust was guilty of violating the Interstate commerce law and the Sherman anti-trust law and was stealing money with both hands from the United States government.

George H. Earle, receiver for the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, complained to Mr. Roosevelt and to his attorney general of the violation of the anti-trust law, and although "no criminal, high or low, whom we can reach, will receive immunity," the administration refused to take any action in regard to Mr. Earle's complaint.

Mr. Bonaparte now explains the Roosevelt's policy on the ground that the complainant had failed to do the Roosevelt's work in clinching the proof.

"Had Mr. Earle offered me any evidence that involved the public interest, I should have acted," he says; yet the sugar trust comes into court and settles for millions in a private suit brought under the Sherman law rather than allow the trial to proceed.

The testimony that forced the settlement was the very testimony that Mr. Earle offered to the Roosevelt administration.

What a different picture of Roosevelt's methods presented itself when the United States supreme court decided that confederate notes were not counterfeit money!

In spite of this decision and of the protests of Attorney-General Knox, Mr. Roosevelt refused to release from prison a man who had been convicted without due process of law, boasting that he was administering "rude and primitive justice" and that regardless of the court this man was "undoubtedly a scoundrel and morally a criminal."

There was plenty of Rooseveltian justice for the man that passed confederate notes, but none for the criminal sugar trust with its millions of capital and assets.
